Halliday Wine Companion - October 2024 - Marcus Ellis

"From the cooler, lofty end of McLaren Vale, on the cusp of the Adelaide Hills, this spent eight and a half months on skins, prior to barrelling into a lone old French oak hogs-head. Faded rose, tobacco, star anise, bitter orange, dried cranberry ... it's familiar varietal territory, but certainly at the savoury end, with a little clove, dried mint and green cardamom, too. Tannins follow the cues, serried tightly, puckering but not withering."
